Prospects for cheap mean in the United States in the immediate future are slim. This information is contained in a report on live stock production in the eleven Western range States made public today by the Department of Agriculture, which is the second of a series of reports the department is publishing on the meat situation in the United States. The first of these reports was published in yesterday's Times.

Live Stock Decrease.

While indications are that there will e & gradual increase in the output of beef and mutton in the range States of the West, this increase is likely to be accompanied by an increase in production cost which will tend to keep prices up.

Between 1910 and 1914, the years in which the investigations on which the report is based were made, the number of live stock in the eleven States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, declined about 13 per cent, it is stated. This decline is believed to have been due principally to the settlement of public lands and a consequent reduction of the range.

lands and a consequent reduction of the range.

The prediction that this decrease will give way to an increase is based on the belief that the amount of live stock on farms will be greater in the future, that the carrying capacity of the stock ranges on the public domain may be increased by legal regulation, and that high prices of range animals and better methods will result in a more efficient utilization of the available forage.

creased by legal regulation, and that high prices of range animals and better methods will result in a more efficient utilization of the available forage.

Situation Changed.

In 1914 it was estimated that no more than 30 per cent of the new settlers had more live stock than was necessary to supply them with work and mileh animals. The situation in this respect, however, has changed, it is stated, and the movement for the production of more life stock may be expected to conmore life stock may be expected to confidence of the production of the movement for the production with her. The situation in this respect, however, has changed, it is stated, and the movement for the preduction of more life stock may be expected to continue because both market and agricultural conditions make this indispensable to really successful farming.

The change will be gradual, it is believed, and only a few head of stock will be added to each farm, but ultimately the increase will be greater than that which is likely to be accomplished in any other way.

In addition to this increase in the numbers of farm stock, there is little doubt that the carrying capacity of the existing ranges can be greatly enlarged. This has been demonstrated in the national forests, where improved methods and regulations have increased the capacity of many ranges from is to so per cent.

Administration Awaits Passing of Measure Before Dealing With Steel Company.

It was learned today that the route to be taken by the Third Regiment of the District militia from Washington to Bisbee, Ariz, will be by way of Louisville, Ky.; Memphis, Tenn.; Texarkana, on the Texas-Arkansas line, El Paso. Tex., and thence to Bisbee.

This is known as route No. 2. The soldiers will travel on the Chesapeake and Oh's railroad cars. It is estimated that 104 traveling hours will be required for them to reach their destination. Train delays and sidetracking possibly will string the trip out over a week.

The two batteries of artillery and troop of cavalry will be sent over route No. 1. which corresponds to that taken by the signal corps, field hospital corps, and First Separate Battalion. This route is from Washington to Bristol, thence to Chattanooga, Memphis, Santa Rosa, and then to El Paso.

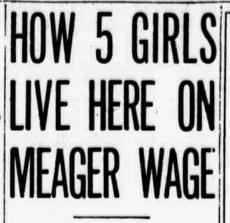

The militia who left Tuesday night are believed to be well past Memphis today. Once the Government armor plate bill s passed, the Administration will be willing to begin negotiations with the Bethlehem Steel Company on its offer to manufacture armor plate at a price to be fixed by the Federal Trade Commission, members of Congressional nava committees broadly hinted today.

However, until the necessary $11,000, 000 is appropriated and President Wilson given definite authority to begin construction of a plant any time he seen fit, no attention will be paid the company's offers, Before beginning any diskering, the Administration is determined to be in a position to manu facture all its armor if it wishes. To insure success of the measure, i

PARIS, July 6 .- Verdun Cathedral was heavily bombarded by the Germans last night with large shells, the war office announced today.

Though violent bombardments occurred on the Verdun front the Germans did not resum their infantry attacks.

The Germans bombarded French second-line trenches near Chattancourt, west of the Meuse. On the east bank artillery duels continued on the sectors of Fleury and the Fumin wood.

> BERLIN, July 6.-The German war office this afternoon officially admitted that the French have captured Belloy-en-Santerre, south of the river Somme, and that the Germans have also evacuated the village of Hem, on the north bank.

The war office also admitted the British made minor progress, obtaining a firm foothold in the salient south of Thiepval. Between the Ancre and the Somme, along the British front, the artillery fire has increased.

On the Verdun front, enemy advances southwest of Fort Vaux have been repulsed.

PARIS, July 6.—A strong German counter-attack north of the Somme last night recaptured from the French two small woods on a front of two-thirds of a mile north of the village of Hem, it was officially announced today.

FURTHER ARTILLERY PREPARATION.

The lull in the fighting south of the Somme last night was probably due to the necessity for further artillery preparation before the French resume their advance on Peronne. Since the French advance south of the river began last Saturday morning, General Foch's troops have taken the German second lines on a wide front, but now face new and strong defensive positions before Peronne.

With French troops now almost in the outskirts of Peronne, the Germans are re-enforcing heavily, particularly on their right flank northwest of the village. Southwest of Peronne heavy fighting occurred yesterday, in which French cavalry took part and the famous French "75's" did terrible

The region south of the Somme over which the French are now advancing is full of historic interest. In the village of Barloux, southwest of Peronne, and in the line of the French advance, the Germans in 1870 installed artillery for the purpose of bombarding Peronne.
